Medical Student Rotations

University of Florida Orthopaedic Surgery Clerkship - Gainesville

The University of Florida’s Department of Orthopaedic Surgery in Gainesville offers four-week clinical clerkships throughout the academic year to qualified fourth year students. The educational experience with duties similar to a first-year resident will provide the student with an overview to Orthopaedic Surgery and its practice. Additionally, the clerkship will provide insight into the University of Florida's Orthopaedic Surgery residency in Gainesville. In this externship, students will have the opportunity to rotate through various Orthopaedic specialties, including:

- Trauma
- Sports Medicine
- Hand and Upper Extremity
- Foot & Ankle
- Pediatric Orthopaedics
- Adult Reconstruction Surgery
- Adult Spine
- Orthopaedic Oncology

Students actively participate in daily inpatient rounds and morning conference followed by operative cases, assisting junior residents in the emergency room, or outpatient clinics. Students are expected to take call during the rotation.

The clerkship is listed as "Clinical Sciences of the Musculoskeletal System" in the fourth year catalog and the director is Dr. Richard Vlasak.
