The Enneking Society 2020 Fall Meeting will be held virtually on November 7, 2020.

The William F. Enneking, MD Society was created in 2016 to bring UF Department of Orthopaedics and Rehabilitation alumni and friends together on a regular basis to network, socialize, share current trends in orthopaedic surgery, and support the education, research and clinical mission of the Department. Dr. Thomas Wright currently serves as the Enneking Society’s Inaugural President.

The Enneking Society hosts two meetings per year: once in the fall in Gainesville, and once at the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons Annual Meeting in the spring.

Become a Member of the Enneking Society

Membership donations are tax-deductible and support the activities of the Enneking Society and the UF Department of Orthopaedics and Rehabilitation through their placement in the Enneking Society endowment. There are two types of membership options available:

- Annual Membership: $350 donation
  - Annual memberships follow the calendar year, and must be renewed annually.
- Lifetime Membership: $5,000 donation
  - Lifetime memberships can be contributed in a lump sum, or contributed over five years at $1,000 annually.
Once a Lifetime Member has made their contribution, they do not need to renew in the future. They are a member for their lifetime.
