UF Orthopaedics ranked among the nation's best by U.S. News & World Report

Published: Jul 28, 2020
Category: College of Medicine News
Orthopaedics and Rehabilitation

The 2020-2021 U.S. News & World Report's best hospitals survey has ranked UF Health Orthopaedics and Sports Medicine Institute #45 among the nation’s Top 50 providers for orthopaedic care. This year’s report also ranked the University of Florida Health Shands Hospital as Florida's top health center and one of the nation’s elite. An additional eight other medical specialties placed in the nation’s Top 50 — more than any other hospital in the Sunshine State. This is a feat seldom achieved by the vast majority of the 5,000 hospitals around the nation analyzed in the annual U.S. News report.

For more information on the 2020-2021 U.S News & World's Report:

- UF Health Shands Hospital ranked best in Florida, among nation’s elite in wide range of specialties
- Full U.S. News & World Report Breakdown
- UF Ortho U.S. News & World Report Breakdown

Source